

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention is directed to a method for color management by a retailer comprising the steps of: choosing an engineered color standard (ECS);
5 communicating the ECS to a product vendor; having a product produced using the ECS; and controlling the product's color quality by comparing the ECS to the produced product. The ECS preferably comprises reflectance data and a dye specification.